CLOCKERS

Synopsis: Rick and AJ are clocking in for another day of living the Christian life and are none too excited about it. Rick has a Bible study. AJ has an FCA meeting. They compare notes with Melissa, who is just clocking out of a quiet time. But things change when Rick meets Christina. She doesn't clock in or out. She claims to always be living the Christian life. Strangest of all, she seems to enjoy it! This is a humorous short sketch about our different attitudes toward living the Christian life.

Director's Note: Don't worry about the time clock. Simply paint something to look like it if you can't locate the real thing.

Running Time: 4-5 minutes

Lights up on a freestanding time clock, the kind used for clocking in and out of work. A sign on the clock reads "This Way To The Christ Life" and bears an arrow pointing stage left. RICK and AJ enter stage right. RICK carries a book. AJ carries a football. They enter ad libbing a lively discussion but stop when they come to the time clock. RICK sighs.

RICK: Well, I guess it's time to clock in.

AJ: (Looking at his watch) We still have a couple of minutes. Wanna throw the ball around?

RICK: Yeah.

RICK and AJ pass the football back and forth ad libbing more dialogue. MELISSA enters stage left, carrying a Bible.

AJ: Hey, Melissa!

MELISSA: Hi, guys. Clocking in?

RICK: Just about to. How about you?

MELISSA: (As she clocks out) Clocking out.

AJ: Ten minute break?

MELISSA: Nah. Done for the day.

RICK: How was it?

MELISSA: Not bad. Just a quiet time. A little prayer, a little Bible study.

RICK: Anything good?

MELISSA: You know, I honestly can't remember.

RICK: I've had days like that.

MELISSA: How about you guys? What are you up to?

RICK: (Holding up his book) Small group. We're reading through [name of book].

MELISSA: How about you, AJ?

AJ: FCA meeting.
